The fall in British consols today and resterday has covered nearly a full point. In ordinary circumstances such fears of socialistic government policies as are professed by the London financial world, coupled with the considerable decline in prices of American securities which has occurred, would be expected to divert British capital into American investments. The unloading of foreign speculative holdings proves more influential, at the moment, than any such investment takings. OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT THIS GRAPPLING PROPOSITION

UPON TWO SMALL BOYS ra Thomas vs. Dan Murphy for Championship of the Athletics-Ira itted by Unknown Man Who Took Them Down Railroad Track by Offers of Money and Gifts of Candy.

A fiendish crime was committed upon a twelve-year-old boy Tuesday evening about half-way between this city and the Norwich State hospital, on the line of the New Haven road, when an Olson boy, aged 12, was indecently assaulted by an unknown man who lured the boy with his younger brother to that spot on the pretence of giving them some money and candy.

The boys were accosted by the man about 8.30 o'clock in Main street and asked if they wanted to make a dime. They at once said they did and he told them to come with him, as he wanted them to deliver a note. He took them down Laurel Hill way upon the railroad track and continued down the track so a point below the paper mill where he assaulted the older brother. The younger brother was struck in the face and head several times by the man as a means of frightening him into keeping guilar. Here's a sporting proposition, Mr. Edi-itor, to make the fans and bugs gather around the ringside and forget such little affairs as the Jeffries-Johnson stille affairs as the Jeffries-Johnson $101,900 mill, league pennants, et al.: Danny Murphy vs. Ira Thomas on the mat for the championship of the White Elephants of the American league and exclusive rights to the flicker picture privileges, winner to take all the chances. This match to be for straight falls, each man to resister at least chances. This match to be for straight falls, each man to register at least three falls within an hour or forfeit the gate receipts to Connie Mack; fadeaway holds, spikes and windshields barred; the contest to continue until one sets sent to the bench.

Ira is hibernating in Danielson this winter; Danny is somewhere in the suburban section of your good old town. We learn that he is going in for the grappling game. Ira put us on to that. Ira seems to be on to everything and he has only been here in the face and head several times by the man as a means of frightening him into keeping quiet. As soon as they could get away the boys came to the city and reported the affair to Captain Linton. They were thoroughly frightened and could give but little idea of the man, although they told of his being well dressed and rattling money in his pocket, saying "Tve got plenty of money." He was a young man with an overcoat. everything and he has only been here a little while at that. He figures that he could go out and get Danny on the mat. With that in view he has been doing some startling stunts with Young Hackenschmidt, a relative of Swat Milligan's, and one of the mightiest near-champs that ever bought a steer-age ticket to any one of the mill towns in eastern Connecticut. This Hack beats everything on the boat. Ira is whanging away at the big import ev-ery time he can get someone to mind the babies (his brother-in-law's), and his condition is now bordering on the an overcoat

Captain Linton put his men at work on the matter at once, Sergeant Twomey, Policemen Fenton, Driscoll, and Ebberts being detailed and they covered the territory thoroughly, but the fellow had had plenty of opportunity to get away. He was tracked through the snow up over the hill to the highway, coming out near the Spicer place, but there trace of him was lost.

The younger boy's face was covered with blood from the punching he received and he has a black eye. Sup-e-r-b.
This is all to be sprung as a surprise on Danny. He isn't supposed to have an inkling of it until they meet for the match. The idea is to get all the fans wise, but to make Murphy that Thomas is the ripest of the the fans wise, but to make Murphy think that Thomas is the ripest of the new lemon crop and as easy to beat as the Senators. Ira has everyone up this way on his staff and we want to see this pulled off. In fact, he has made the biggest hit ever seen on the home grounds—and in midwinter at that. Every justice of the peace in the town has been around to admire the hero and feel his throwing arm. He has landed right in the middle of the social whirl with one magnificent bound.
